MET GALA 2017 – the Gucci meets AC/DC moment!

Beautiful actress Dakota Johnson attended the New York Met Gala last week on the arm of Gucci's creative director, Alessandro Michele. Our favourite outfit by a loooooong shot, was Alessandro's own design - a hot pink silk smoking jacket emblazoned on the back with the AC/DC logo! How completely rock n roll, we loved it! We'll be watching the runways this autumn when Gucci will unveil its AC/DC capsule collection.

BAND OF THE WEEK: NECK DEEP

There is a buzz around, an air of excitement - Welsh rockers, Neck Deep have finished their 3rd album and will announce the release date any day now!

"That's a wrap! ND album 3 = DONE!," the band said on social media.

Neck Deep won the Kerrang! Best Newcomer in 2014 and for Best Live Band in 2016. They are heading to tour Australia this month then to the US on the Warped Tour, sponsored by VANS.

We have an array of awesome tees and summer vests to celebrate the upcoming new album and tour. We are expecting big things for this amazing band this year.

LED ZEP REUNION RUMOURS!

Led Zeppelin fans have worked themselves up into a frenzy over rumours that the rock veterans will reunite ahead of the band's 50th anniversary next year. This came from a cryptic message on singer Robert Plant's website that says simply: "Any time now...".

We are left 'Dazed & Confused' - please let this be true!!!!

THE 90'S ARE BACK, SO IS THE BRITPOP FEUD!

A few issues back, we at Absolute Rocks HQ, reported that Noel Gallagher had collaborated with Damon Albarn on his latest Gorillaz album.

This news didn't particularly sit well with Liam Gallagher who tweeted "That gobshite out of Blur might have turned Noel Gallagher into a massive girl but believe you me, next time I see him there's gonna be war."

To then re-ignite the 90s Britpop wars, Liam's own model son Lennon, appeared on the cover of new magazine Buffalo wearing a Blur t-shirt! We love it... all eyes are on this trend and we can't wait for the next chapter of Blur v Oasis...or is that just Liam?!

Check out our classic Blur artwork. The 90s are soo this season and can be seen from catwalk to high street.
